

The Global Thinkers Project, Oxford
Reviving silenced internationalist voices in IR

DPIR, CIS, St Cross College and Somerville College, University of Oxford present:

The Global Thinkers of the International Discussion Series Internationalist Women Claudia Jones

Date: 10 March, Tuesday, Week 8

Time: 5:30 pm - 7 pm Venue: Large Seminar Room, St Cross College

Thinker: Claudia Jones (1915-1964)

Jones was a Trinidad-born journalist and activist. A prominent feminist and communist, her best-known writing is "An End to the Neglect of the Problems of the Negro Woman!", which reflects what would come to be known as intersectional analysis. She was deported from the United States, where she had lived since she was a child, in 1955 for her political activities. She moved to Britain, where she started the UK's first major black newspaper, West Indian Gazette, in 1958. This was a major contributor to the rise of consciousness within the Black British community. Jones is perhaps best remembered as the founder of the Notting Hill Carnival.

Speaker: Professor Patricia Owens

Patricia Owens is professor in International Relations at the University of Sussex and Director of the Leverhulme Research Project, 'Women and the History of International Thought'. She specialises in international theory and the history and theory of war. Her most recent book, Economy of Force (Cambridge University Press, 2015) won several prizes for the best book in international studies.

Click here or email urvi.khaitanehistory.ox.ac.uk to register!

Convenors: Professor Richard Caplan, Dr Marina Pérez de Arcos and Sharinee Jagtiani
Organised with support from the Oxford University Press John Fell Fund and in collaboration with the Rothermere American Institute and South Asian Studies

Celebrating 100 years of women at Oxford

