Decolonial Reading Group

Wednesdays 2:00-4:00

Week 1: Colin Matthew Room (2:30-4:30)

The purpose of this group is to provide a friendly and judgment-free space for all students to explore and better their understanding of key academic theories and provide a budding community of scholars who can provide guidance and expertise in their field and educational background. The readings will be focused on different theoretical aspects of decolonial and postcolonial thought, taking a transnational approach, and utilising thinkers from the Western Canon, South Asian Studies, and African studies to examine different events and schools of thought thematically.

All students who wish to learn more about decolonial and postcolonial theory are welcome.
